This Edition Important
For the Bardian staff, this issue of the paper is an important one. It is the last of our issues to be printed in movable type. However, we regret that this must be our last issue for this semester.

The Bard “Social Problem”

Dave Robeson has stated in Council that the administration is seriously considering a change in regulations that would change would include a cancellation of women’s publication rights. Certainly there is no pressure coming from the parents. A poll on this subject was taken at the parent’s meeting and the results were a two-to-one margin against a change. When just the fathers of the women students were polled, the margin against a change in regulations was four-to-one.

Why then is the administration so concerned with the situation? Are the alumni exercising pressure on them for a change? Are public opinion? Is it the effect that Bard’s social revolution is having on the administration that is the reason the administration is so concerned?

We submit that it is from any of these reasons that the problem is one of public relations rather than one of morals. Instead of capitulating to these pressures which in the compensation of the Administration’s freedom of the individual, efforts should be, through media such as The Bardian, to change the image outsiders have of Bard.

E.P.C. Decision Logical

By Jack Blum

E.P.C. deserves a great deal of praise for handling the attack on the literature division of the school’s student council, as well as the student council in general. The organization has been a great help to the administration in dealing with the situation in the student body and the faculty members.

The meeting was held in the large room of the student center. It was attended by a large number of students and faculty members.

The meeting was called to order by the President of the student council. The first item of business was the election of new officers for the upcoming year. The new officers were then sworn in and began their duties.

The second item of business was the discussion of the proposed changes in the student council’s bylaws. The changes were presented by the Vice-President and were adopted by a vote of the membership.

The third item of business was the discussion of the budget for the upcoming year. The President presented the budget and it was adopted by a vote of the membership.

The fourth item of business was the discussion of the proposed changes in the student council’s rules and regulations. The changes were presented by the Secretary and were adopted by a vote of the membership.

The fifth and last item of business was the discussion of the proposed changes in the student council’s constitution. The changes were presented by the President and were adopted by a vote of the membership.

The meeting ended with a vote of thanks to all who had attended and a call for the next meeting.

Jazz Takes Over At Bard for A Day

The third annual Bard Jazz Festival was presented on Saturday, November 7th. It consisted of a panel discussion in the afternoon discussing "There Are Negro Jazz Musicians in America?" and a concert in the evening.

The following article is a review of the Bard Jazz Festival by David H. Morison, a music major.

E.P.C. Decision Logical

By Jack Blum

E.P.C. deserves a great deal of praise for handling the attack on the literature division of the school’s student council, as well as the student council in general. The organization has been a great help to the administration in dealing with the situation in the student body and the faculty members.

The meeting was held in the large room of the student center. It was attended by a large number of students and faculty members.

The meeting was called to order by the President of the student council. The first item of business was the election of new officers for the upcoming year. The new officers were then sworn in and began their duties.

The second item of business was the discussion of the proposed changes in the student council’s bylaws. The changes were presented by the Vice-President and were adopted by a vote of the membership.

The third item of business was the discussion of the budget for the upcoming year. The President presented the budget and it was adopted by a vote of the membership.

The fourth item of business was the discussion of the proposed changes in the student council’s rules and regulations. The changes were presented by the Secretary and were adopted by a vote of the membership.

The fifth and last item of business was the discussion of the proposed changes in the student council’s constitution. The changes were presented by the President and were adopted by a vote of the membership.

The meeting ended with a vote of thanks to all who had attended and a call for the next meeting.