Sebastian Spitz '17 SR '14

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 5–6 PM

BA WIN HALL
MASSENA CAMPUS, EAST WING followed by an informal reception

Sebastian Spitz '17 SR '14 is a legal academic working at the intersection of law and sociology. He is currently pursuing a PhD in Harvard University's sociology department and graduated magna cum laude from Harvard Law School in 2021. His research focuses on inequality in the criminal justice system, using quantitative methods to examine differential punishment and offending across social categories such as gender, sexual orientation, and race. He has published in the Annual Review of Criminology and Oxford Handbook of Comparative Historical Sociology. Sebastian recently completed a clerkship for Judge Lawrence E. Kahn of the Northern District of New York and will begin a clerkship for Judge Pierre N. Leval of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit later this year.
