ALMS FOR OBLIGATION

The campus, now received with understanding sympathy the news that Berlin has fallen. We are becoming a bit red up with impending crises and the immediate surrounding environment. However, the news that is coming, this fall, is just the opposite. The fall campus arts season starts now, and it is the season that immediately follows the news threatening to the financial and moral security of the students of the Bard College. We are glad to report that the news that is coming, this fall, is not as threatening as it was last year. For what the students of the Bard College could not endure, last year, will not be a surprise to the students of the Bard College this fall. We are glad to report that the news that is coming, this fall, is not as threatening as it was last year. For what the students of the Bard College could not endure, last year, will not be a surprise to the students of the Bard College this fall.

REORGANIZATION

The election of Mr. James L. Frew to the chairmanship of the board of trustees and the beginning of the reorganization of the Bard College is a step forward in the direction of a better future for the students of the Bard College. We are glad to report that the news that is coming, this fall, is not as threatening as it was last year. For what the students of the Bard College could not endure, last year, will not be a surprise to the students of the Bard College this fall.

SUMMA CUM LAUDE: THE THEATRE

The final curtain was lowered on the first production of the Bard Theatre last Thursday night. "Ten Minute Alibi" is no exception to the rule. Although the play is well-written and the acting is good, the production is not notable for its excellence. The setting is simple, with a plain white wall serving as the backdrop. There is a certain amount of understatement in the acting, and the expressions on the actors' faces are not always clear. The dialogue is effective, however, and the play has a definite dramatic quality.

The story concerns a young lawyer who is accused of murdering his wife. The play is well-written, and the acting is good, but the production is not notable for its excellence. LettERS TO THE EDITOR

ON A HIGH MANS COLLEGE

To the Editors of The Bardian:

I am writing to express my concern about the increasing noise levels in the dormitories. The noise levels have been escalating over the past few weeks, and it is affecting my ability to study and concentrate. I believe that the administration should implement stricter noise policies to ensure a quieter and more conducive environment for studying.

Sincerely,

Help Win 3rd Bowling Championship

BEAT NON-SOCS, RETIRE TROPHY

Bob Aufricht, Rosenberg, Doug Potter Snare Non-Socs Title

The final play-off match was won by Bob Aufricht, Rosenberg, and Doug Potter when they defeated non-socs, 212-195, in the final of the third bowling championship held at the T-Birds bowling alley on April 15. The T-Birds, with Bob Aufricht, Rosenberg, and Doug Potter as members, have been bowling in the T-Birds league for two years. This year, they took the non-socs title in the regular season and qualified for the final play-off match.

The T-Birds bowling team has been practicing hard over the past month in preparation for the championship. They have been working on improving their skills and strategies to ensure their win in the final play-off match. The team has been focusing on their weak areas and working on their strengths. They have been practicing their alley shots, aiming for the pins, and improving their accuracy.

The T-Birds team members are very excited about winning the championship and hope to continue their success in future bowling competitions. They are grateful for the support of their fans and look forward to their next bowling season.
Informal Dance Again Successful
As Overflow Crowd Swells Albee

Harrowed by a fast-moving snow line, over twenty-five couples walked briskly through the hotly ejammed way two and a half hours of dancing as the second in-formal-faculty's student hop, held in Albee Recreation Room Thursday evening following the final Band Festival performance. The overflow crowd made the affair fully as successful as the experimental predecessor on February 18.
The room was illuminated by only twenty-two light bulbs, with the adjacent ballroom. Recorded music was again supplied by the same crew, with Richard Riney and John Cas-telli assisting in the operation of the machinery.

Like before, most of the girls were brought from Red Hook, but this time guests from more distant points also attended. Many faculty members came. Climax of the evening was reached at 3 a.m., long after the dance, when a birthday-lad party kept the campus awake through the wee hours.

It was originally planned to hold the dance in the Commons' Atrium
on Friday night; however, unforeseen circumstances obliged to reschedule this event. The next best thing done was to have the dance in Ac-trium, in the Kappa Omius Chi frati-ty house.
