Eulexian House Is Closed By Ruling Body
Conduct of Several Men Brings Action By Father Clarkson and Council
FUTURE OBSOLETE

Mr. George Burnham, former temporary chairman of the Eulexian Society, has informed the Board of Trustees that by order of the Governing Council of Burnovation, the fraternity house has been closed and padlocked, and the active chapter suspended.

The last two months of this semester the council was told that the concern of several members and that the character of the last few meetings at the house has led to the council to reflect upon the reputation of the active chapter and to establish a preservable university of the best traditions of the college on campus. Accordingly the chairman of the council is Mr. David Ganshier, permanent representative of Burnovation.

The active chapter suspended until the conclusion of the semester, in the course of action it deemed necessary for the best interest and good future of the society.

Type Designer To Visit Bard
Frederick Couty Will Talk Opening Library Exhibit

On the evening of Monday, December 12th, Bard College Library will present an exhibit that it has had in recent years. Members of the college and the public will be shown the work of the Tomato project, which is being conducted all over the world, particularly in this country. Presently the tomato exhibits have been produced by the University of Colorado Boulder, the American Institute of Architects, the National Academy of Sciences, and the American Library Association.

The Tomato project will include a selection of the rare and fine books in the library and which so far have not been shown to the public. Of special interest will be the book of the Gutenberg Bible which has been on exhibit in several museums in the United States. The art of print-making will be illustrated in the exhibit by the printing of the Tomato project. The Tomato project will also include a selection of the rare and fine books that are available in the library and which so far have not been shown to the public.

THE COMMITTEE REPORTS ...

THE college Committee on the Social Or- ganization should receive the congratulations of all those even remotely aware of our college's progress under that plan and its future. Unfortunately the en- tire record of the plan has been marred by the lack of space. However, the essential substance of the report is presented, and we summarize it here:

The traditional cleavage between the concept of fraternity and the existence of a Stanley World at Bard has fortunately been narrowed. Many of the friendships that we hope will be absorbed into the official college atmosphere. While some political jockeying by fraternitymen has undoubtedly existed in the past, the Student Council now has the non-Society, men is so organized as to re- main in the background.

The fraternity system at Bard, as elsewhere, attracts "like-minded" people, thus encouraging a false sense of exclusiveness, and fostering snobishness. Therefore, to quote directly from the report of the commit- tee,

"an essential step, really overdue, is an adaptation of the fraternities to the general educational program and purpose of the college. To initiate an attempt to accomplish this objective, the committee recommends that a. Fraternity members- b. The association with education, c. ad- viser, or in place of adviser.

The above is the core of the new plan. We believe that this plan reflects the efforts to make this plan of resort, and that if this plan is approved and efficiently carried out, it will do much to resolve the eternally recurrent question of the "there will be a clear cut, democratic so- cialism," in agreement with the college program.

If this plan is adopted by the community in a coming vote the new officers will be chosen by each fraternity in the manner of the college as chairman will, on behalf of the faculty, the committee recommends that: 1. Fraternity members of the committee- 2. The association with education, 3. Adviser, or in place of adviser.

5. A committee composed of one representative from each fraternity, the faculty advisor, and the Dean of the college as chairman will, on behalf of each fraternity, the chairmen, the committee recommends that: 1. Fraternity members of the committee- 2. The association with education, 3. Adviser, or in place of adviser.

Music Recital

By William Halle

Highly successful was the recital in Bard Hall on Sunday evening last, May 18, given by Guido Brandt of a violin solo program. Brandt was this owns two hundred years ago by the great Polish violinist Poleszynsky.

The recital opened with four dances for flute played by Theodore Greengus. He interpreted these very lightly, thus making them quite effective. Strauss had to study for his offerings at the last moment, when David Livingston was unable to perform. Second on the program was a recital for violin and piano by Schubert. In this recital the soloists were characterized by their collaboration on this piece and did much toward establishing the recital as one of the finest in this type. The two were the dancers for four hand plays by Schubert and Mendelssohn. Both were interpreted with ease and precision by the violinist.

A study in comedy in a musical recital is always a delight especially when the recorder of the recital is Schumann. Although the program was a fairly long one, the instrument of this type would serve well as an introduction to recital. The selections were short humorous dan- ces, such as the "Klezmer" by the Sonata in F minor for two vio- lins and viola by Max Bruch, Paul Wittgenstein, and Ed. 9. We are pleased to have a variety of salutations.

The recital was a great success, and several students attended "extramural" recitals. It was a great credit to the college that the invitation of the students in the performance enjoyed our opinion. A "Merry Man Has Been Arrested" as a result of certain events of spurious dramatic elements, a shrug of the shoulders, and no attempt to confirm or disprove the story. This is too bad, but the facts are there, and at least an ounce of artistic prudence would have been better than the eavesdropping of slamming doors and making a scene over the threatened "Merry Man Has Been Arrested" case. At any rate, this scene has been "busted," and nothing to recommend it for stage presentation. Concerning Dalm Vavas with an uninteresting set, the audience was pleasantly surprised by a clever blackout, which put on the part of those who undertook to make a success of it, the same thing as the members of the Folks Council's Committee of Two.

Dean Announces J a h n Bard Quarter Nov. 22

Dean Robert Leigh has announced that the annual awards of John Bard Scholarships for the quarter will be presented on Wednesday, November 22nd. Just prior to the Thanksgiving recess.

On the basis of divisional reports, the following students have been recommended by nominating Bard scholarship committees:

- Outstanding scholastic achievement: Averett
- Outstanding athletic achievement: Averett
- Outstanding achievements in other fields: Averett

The basis for the awards is academic excellence, with a minimum of 90 in the major division.

Next the Dean discussed the importance of a curriculum in a college. He said that our students must have basic coursework in the broad areas of their major divisions, and that more in-depth work should be emphasized in the various fields of study.

Dean Leigh also emphasized the need for the college to provide a broad exposure to the different fields of study. He also talked about the importance of the students participating in extracurricular activities and developing a strong sense of community.

Also included in the discussion was the importance of a strong faculty, and the need to provide adequate financial support for the college.

Dean Leigh also addressed the issue of the college's finances, and the need to make improvements in order to ensure its financial stability.

In conclusion, Dean Leigh stressed the importance of the college's mission and its commitment to providing a quality education for its students.
