Student Council Publishes Handbook

Distributed to Frosh Upon
Opening of College.

The Student Council is to be congratulated upon the excellent Freshman Handbook which is distributed to the first year men upon the opening of college this year.

The book contains a welcome to the freshmen from the various officers of the administration and some excellent suggestions of a more personal variety. Not least of the contents is the article describing the "Frosh Rules" for this year; eleven in all. The customs of the campus are enumerated and adequate explanations of the Student Government and Convocation activities and functions. A complete directory of the officers of the entire student body is given in a "Who's Who" section. Added to this material are schedules for all the games and the college songs and cheers.

The men who compiled this handbook have very pleasantly condensed practically all the answers to every possible question any new man would ask concerning student activity, administration and general college customs.

Following are the freshman rules for this year:

1. Within thirty days after the close of the first semester the Freshman class shall, with all the ritual and solemnity due the occasion, secretly inter an algebra, autographed by each member of the class, and with it a certain quantity of wine. To be legal, every Freshman must be at the grave during the burial. At the end of four years, the algebra is exhumed, and burned on a funeral pyre, during the Class Day exercises. Toasts are drunk to the college, and to the outgoing and incoming Senior Class.

2. Freshman caps must be worn within a radius of four miles of the campus at all times, except when actively engaged in athletics. This territory includes Red Hook.

3. Freshman must smoke nothing other than corn cob pipes on campus.

4. Freshmen must not precede sophomores or upperclassmen thru doorways.

5. A freshman who makes himself objectionable by continued impertinence and annoyance to sophomores and upperclassmen thus renders himself persona non grata and practically eliminates himself from consideration in the athletic, fraternity and social life of the campus. Should the individual persist in his offenses he is liable to suitable warnings and corrective measures from his fellow students.

6. Freshmen must carry matches or lights at all times for the use of sophomores and upperclassmen.

7. Seniors only may give freshmen permission to disregard a freshman rule. Rules Nos. 2 and 3 are always to be observed. "Freshmen Work" includes among other duties, the following: Waiting on tables when regular waiters are on athletic trips; answering the telephone in Aspinwall at all times; assisting the managers of Varsity teams (this includes cleaning the snow off the Hockey rink.)

8. All freshmen are expected to take an equal share in a number of duties connected with college activities and designated as "freshman work". Only by permission of

UNIVERSITY, COLLEGE AND STUDENT HEADS GREET NEW MEN WITH SOUND ADVICE

Warden B. I. Bell Addresses Letter To Undergraduates

September 15, 1930.

To the Undergraduates,
St. Stephen's College,
c/o Editor, Lyre Tree.

Gentlemen:
It gives me pleasure to welcome all the new students, and the old ones too.

This summer I stood one afternoon on the top of the keep of an old castle outside of Baden-Baden. From it I could see, stretched out before me, the vast plain of the upper Rhine Valley. The lord of that castle had been a wise man. From it he could see the whole domain which it was his business to understand, and for which he was responsible; and there he could teach his sons the nature of their intricate domain. A college ought to be also a sort of high place, from which one looks dispassionately upon one's world. It should be a place apart from life's hurly-burly, above it; but those who dwell within it have no right merely to enjoy the freedom and the quiet of their retreat. From Annandale we must observe our world, see it in the perspective of time, analyze its motives. We need to be serene, observant, compassionate toward the human panorama. We shall never, probably, be as free for all this as we are here and now. It is a great opportunity for real people. It takes students of character and mental stature to make a success of life here. Little people must be ever

Varsity Tennis Team Loses Three Men

Fall Tournament to Be Played Soon.

Now that college is soon to bring forth its usual crop of student activities, few perhaps, of the old men and we hope a large number of freshmen will turn an interested eye upon tennis. For the benefit of the new men it will be well to make a brief review of the tennis activities of last year.

Last September the Fall Tournament was won by Waeber, then a freshman. Waeber will be unable to return to college this semester, but it is possible that he may come back the second semester and thus be available for the tennis team in the spring.

In the spring, tennis was reinstated as a collegiate sport after a lapse of two years, and Dr. James Wilson consented to act in the capacity of coach. The varsity tennis team was selected out of an unusually large number of candidates, and finally consisted of Foster, Kates, Wilson, Waeber, Chapin, and Fordan. The second team consisted of Everett, Jonason, Hamilton, Haynes, Simpson, and Sanford. The varsity had matches with Vermont, Poughkeepsie Tennis Team, Eastman, Kent, and Hoosac. Dr. Wilson hopes to have a much stiffer schedule for this coming spring. David Scribner, this year's manager, has already booked several matches.

At the end of the tennis season a spring tournament was held and

DR. NICHOLAS M. BUTLER
President of Columbia University

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY
IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK
President's Room

September 19, 1930.

To the Men of St. Stephen's College
c/o Mr. H. Edgar Hammond,
Editor, The Lyre Tree.

Gentlemen:

It is a satisfaction to be able to offer a word of greeting and good wishes to the men of St. Stephen's College as they come together for another year of undergraduate life and work. Fortunate indeed is the American youth who, particularly at this stage in the world's history, can have such opportunity as St. Stephen's College offers before taking his place in the world of scholarship, of practical affairs, or of professional and public service.

There are two things which such a youth should always keep in mind. The first is that he should put himself on speaking terms with the Great Tradition and its representatives in the history of civilization. He should know what has constituted the Great Tradition in religion, in letters, in fine arts, in the sciences, and in government.

He should know who have been its great leaders and exponents and what were their several contributions. It is this acquaintance which gives to the youth that foundation and that insight which are essential elements of a liberal education. And second, the youth should learn to look about him with clear sightedness, with a sense of proportion and with just wisdom. He should put himself in position not only to know what is going on in the world in which he lives but to understand and to interpret that which is going on. At this point, knowledge of the Great Tradition will come to his aid and his two objectives will merge into one. There could be no wiser or safer guidance for the youth so minded than the rich company of scholars who constitute the faculty of St. Stephen's College.

Faithfully yours,
(Signed)

NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER.

Convocation Pres. Sends Message to New Students

To the New Men on Campus,
c/o Editor, Lyre Tree.

Gentlemen:

The college life is four years in duration and each commencement with its gala activities and departing seniors is followed in the autumn by an influx of freshmen. It is this endless procession with its attendant study and play which constitute college life. To that life you men who are new are now being introduced.

It is quite impossible to here catalog all your reactions; to itemize your hopes, fears, detailed queries and temporary confusions. Numerous though these may be there is still one goal shining through the turmoil of opening days. You all hope to become college men—to make your place in the campus life and to attain a position of recognized worth among your fellow students.

The realization of this end entails not only habits of studiousness and integrity, but likewise the perpetual practice of humility and service. No society is so critical according to its accepted standards, as the society of the college campus. By the same token, no society is so ruthless when once its feelings are aroused.

On this account I take this opportunity to say to the freshmen that they make no effort to pretend to characteristics which they do not possess—to assume no poses which are not customary. Observe that the men who are officers are those held in good esteem by their fellow students and faculty and are those who, by their own particular qualifications, proved themselves fit.

Every freshman who really wants to live the S. S. C. life is welcome. He will at all times find its Student Council and the upper classmen interested in his welfare and helpful in his real difficulties. For those who are willing to work and play intensively, the next four years

Cross Country and Soccer Start Work

Many Veterans Missing.

The prospects of this fall's soccer and cross country teams look bright with the return of a number of last year's veterans and a large number of promising new men. The schedules of both teams are difficult and will keep them busy until the middle of November.

The soccer team this year will start its practice the first part of this week under Coach Eanks. Thomas Blomquist will captain this year's team backed by Good, Nale, Paul, Foster, and Craven from last year's varsity squad. Walter Lemley '30, captain of last year's team will be greatly missed from this year's line-up, although it is expected a large number of new men will turn out and help fill the deficiency caused by those of last year who have not returned. Dr. Phalen has asked that all those who intend to play hockey this winter to

Fall Semester Begins With Thirty-seven New Men Enrolled

Classes Start September 22nd

With the closing of the registration period for the new men on Wednesday, September 17, thirty-seven had been enrolled. New York State led in the registration with a total number of twenty-two men. Five men from Massachusetts made that commonwealth second. Two delegates were sent by each of the following States: Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Michigan. Connecticut, Rhode Island, Texas, and Maryland were represented by one man each.

The freshman class is this year approximately the same size as have been the entering classes of the past two years. Of the many questions asked of the upper classmen so far "Have you read Penderennis?" seems to be of most lasting quality. However, be that as it may, everyone of the new men, as well as a great many of the old students, have been rushing about here and there to prepare for a flying start on Monday, when classes begin.

On Wednesday evening, September 17, the new men met in the Hegeman Lecture Theatre and were there addressed by the officers of the college and student administration.

Following is the list of new men:

"HELLO"

The LYRE TREE wishes to take this opportunity to welcome the new men on our campus. Our "hello" to you is traditional with us. A similar greeting is traditional in every other college in this country, probably. For, our welcome is accompanied by a bit of advice which we think is as sound as it is paternalistic. This we offer, though not exclusively, to the first year men.

You have come here to acquire an education, ostensibly. That is a noble objective. Be sure you don't lose sight of it as the lesser and more immediate things clutter up your horizon.

Each of you have your own moral standards by which you judge the things about you. Use them and not some one else's; and don't forget to use them subjectively as well as objectively. You will have loads of "facts" thrown at you and loads of "advice," such as our own. Be sure you think it's good before you accept it.

You have each entered this college intending to complete a four year course of study, presumably. Remember that it is a four year course and don't try to do everything in the way of extra-curricula activities during your first year! Your first year is particularly important. Devote as much of it as you can to those things which will make a secure foundation for your ultimate objective, namely, your studies. Don't overwork, but at the same time don't underestimate your vitality.

If you would spend a pleasant four years here, learn immediately to distinguish the petty things from the important. Three years of living here have not altered our original opinion that gossiping and "gripping" are petty. Within three weeks you should be able to lengthen our list considerably. In this respect, at least, you must come to admire the strict prohibitionist, whatever else your views may embrace.

Don't consider fraternities seriously until they begin to consider you seriously. You must waste or otherwise sacrifice enough time to them soon enough without doing so at present. Let the several fraternities make advances to you, not you to them. Your efforts usually are not appreciated, and seldom rewarded. Being a member of a fraternity is a valuable experience. It may intensify some very pleasant friendships and create new ones, and in this respect it is valuable. However, we shall take up this question at some future date. For the present we shall omit details and merely "advise" a "hands off" policy with reference to fraternities. You take care of your studies and we are certain the fraternities can care for themselves for a few weeks more without your aid.

Again, let us refer to the question of studies. Your professors, you will find, are fairly human. See to it that you are. They will begin their course by giving you the fundamentals of it, probably. Get them; they are important. The saying that "A bad beginning makes a good ending" is probably a corruption of the proverb "A hard beginning makes for a good ending." Judge for yourselves which of the two is more likely to be correct. If you are in doubt, take our suggestion and try the second.

There is but one more thing we wish to suggest to you. Attendance is required at the chapel services of this college. You are permitted a fair number of "cuts". Use them wisely and don't "gripe" about the requirements. You knew about the chapel regulations before you came here. If you didn't, it was your fault because they are printed in the catalogue for your benefit. Before you condemn a thing, make certain you have reason on your side. None of us has had enough of experience to say, of our own accord, whether such requirements are for better or worse. Therefore, we must accept conditions as they are and trust that the almost unanimous judgment of those who are older in experience than we is correct. With this in mind, accept or reject the chapel services, as you wish, but don't "gripe" about them. If you do reject the services, avoid annoying those who accept them.

We have concluded our "advice" and our list of "don'ts". We have offered these to you with the hope that they might assist you in seeing "big things big" and "small things small", in order that none of you will be among those who leave us in January because of "eye trouble".

FACULTY FINANCIAL ADVISOR

In view of disturbances in the business departments of some of the Student publications last year, we deem it highly advisable that a member of the Faculty be selected by the Student Council to act as an advisor in matters of finance and general business methods to the Business department of Student publications.

This suggestion is a custom in a great number of colleges, and its acceptance would greatly diminish the possibility of distasteful situations arising during the course of the year.

Great care should be taken in the administration of business for someone else, more especially for a group. This precaution is more often overlooked than heeded by students in managerial capacities who handle money for student bodies. Very many instances of this sort may be recalled in our own experiences. Oftimes thoroughly scrupulous persons become involved in very unpleasant circumstances not because they themselves have been dishonest, but because they have been careless. It is for their protection and for the better administration of funds that we make this suggestion.

In the selection of a Faculty Advisor of this sort, care must be taken to secure the services of one who has a wide range of business experience, for that is the chief thing that students lack.

THE MESSENGER

Upon beginning a new semester, we must take an account of stock, so to speak, in more ways than one. In order to avoid confusion, somewhat, we must consider but one thing at a time, however. For the present let that be the MESSENGER.

By way of review, let us look back over the past two years in the history of that magazine. Two years ago three issues of the Messenger appeared. The guiding spirit behind the publication of that magazine was excellent; the purpose of the magazine was admirable; the publication itself was commendable. Nevertheless, there was a deficit of something over one hundred dollars in the final financial accounts of the year, which was due, to a very great extent, to dependence upon uncollectable advertisements which were accepted by the management and published in good faith. However, there was that deficit which had to be cleared off.

Last year the Messenger was issued four times during the year. The ever present "rotarian" idea made it inevitable that last year's magazine should be "bigger and better" than preceeding attempts. From the literary point of view much is to be commended and much questioned. From the business point of view the magazine was successful. However, to attain to that success many more advertisements had to be procured than ever before, hence, a very large part of each issue was devoted entirely to advertisements which, while appreciated, detracted considerably from the appearance of the publication. Having profited, somewhat, by the preceeding board's experience, more advertisements were sold than were actually needed on the basis that some would not be collectable at the end of the year. This action has proved its value. Poor business made it impossible, even during the spring, to collect for a great number of the advertisements which had been published. Even with thoroughly legal contracts in the hands of the business board, nothing could be done about the situation. Business depreciated more by the time the last issue was published, hence, more uncollectable advertisements were discovered. At present there are one hundred eighteen dollars worth of advertising matter yet unpaid, and about ninety dollars yet due the creditors of the Messenger. The Board investigated, as well as possible, all of the debtors of the Messenger. Many have gone out of business and others are threatened with bankruptcy. However, the above amount did seem collectable. Therefore, the contracts for the advertisements included in the above sum were detailed to a Poughkeepsie lawyer who is now endeavoring to realize as much as possible from the contractors involved. Last year's Business Manager is confident that there will be sufficient income from the present debtors to assure complete payment of all claims against the Messenger. If there is any excess, that goes to the Student Council which body contributed fifty dollars towards the deficit of two years ago.

So much for review. The question at the moment is what should be done about publishing a Messenger this year. We have already hinted at our opinion by having presented a review of the financial side of the publication for the past two years. We can see no pleasant outlook for the year. To be quite frank, we heartily encourage the discontinuance of the publication. We are convinced that when so much difficulty is encountered in collecting for the advertisements, without which the magazine could not exist, that the ultimate collection must be realized by means of legal channels, we are wasting our time and energy. Being somewhat conservative towards other things, we naturally assume a conservative attitude towards time and energy.

While the Lyre Tree is not utterly independent financially, nevertheless, it is not so dependent upon advertising income as the Messenger. If student opinion demands an outlet for aspiration and inspirations of a literary nature, it is just possible that, should sufficient material accumulate as to warrant it, an occasion supplement can be added to the Lyre Tree and devoted entirely to the expression of more ethereal things than college activities. The additional expense involved in such a program would be very small.

We think it much better to have one thing good than several things poor. We are quite sure that the present conditions of business generally, notwithstanding rumors to the contrary, foreshadow enough difficulty for one publication which depends upon the neighboring merchants' support financially. Two publications dependent upon identical sources for similar support would both fail, we think.

The Lyre Tree has an obligation to fulfill to both Alumni and Students. The Messenger is utterly a Student interest, and not thoroughly that. The Lyre Tree has had a more successful and more vital tradition than the Messenger.

Therefore, we heartily advise, in view of the facts presented above which, we think, are not selfish, that the Messenger be discontinued during the present college year. If this is done, the Lyre Tree pledges itself to cooperate in all ways possible with the former editorial board of the Messenger to publish such material as that board may select and deem worthy of publication.

ARTHUR P. F. ADENAW

Arthur P. F. Adenaw

On July 6, Arthur Paul Frederick Adenaw died as a result of an automobile accident in which, unfortunately, another person lost her life. His cousin, who was driving with him, and who visited Fred on the campus last year, while badly shaken escaped injury.

Born on October 11, 1909, he was but twenty-one years of age at the time of his death. His body was buried at Litchfield, Conn., on July 9.

Fred Came to St. Stephen's last year from South Kent School and soon found his way into the lives of many of the men. He was a genial spirit and those of us who came to know something of his excellent qualities will miss him more than we can tell. At the time of his death he was a student in the summer school and was making excellent progress in his work. He was a member of the Eullexian Fraternity.

To his mother and sister, and other surviving relatives we extend, at this our first opportunity, our deepest sympathy.

Grant him, O Lord, eternal rest
And may light perpetual shine upon him.

Under communications, a letter from Dr. Norris in regard to the Alumni Scholarship Fund was read. He stated the present balance of the fund to be $2,784.63, and proffered his resignation as a trustee.

The Rev. O. F. R. Treder, necrologist, reported the deaths of the following alumni during the past year: Former students, the Revs. Charles G. M. Stewart, Charles Mercer Hall, Ed. Cook Bent, Otis E. Gray, Alaric James Drew, and Alexander McMillan. The secretary added the name of Edwin T. Hague, '29.

The president's report was given by the Rev. Charles E. Eder, who simply stated that what he had to say would come up in the course of the business to be transacted.

The treasurer, the Rev. R. E. Brestell, D. D., gave a summary of the condition of the treasury, which showed a favorable balance of $281.40. This report was approved on motion and referred to an auditing committee consisting of the Revs. O. F. R. Treder and A. M. Judd.

For the report of the Executive Committee, the secretary summarized his letter to the association of November 14, 1929, giving the results of the committee's meeting of October 30, 1929.

On motion, duly seconded and carried, it was resolved: That the resignation of Dr. Norris as a trustee of the Alumni Scholarship Fund be accepted, with thanks for his devoted service, and that a successor be elected at this time. There was only one nomination, that of Mr. Herman Leonhard. On motion, the secretary was instructed to cast one ballot for the same. Elected.

The minutes of the special meeting of May 21st, Alumni Day, were next read for information by the secretary.

Business growing out of this meeting was taken up. The secretary read over the previously-passed proposed amendment to and changes in the Constitution and By-Laws.

Mr. Hopson and others discussed the legal basis for the election of Alumni Trustees, and Mr. Harrison's letter of 1927 in regard to it. Duly moved, seconded, and carried: That Alumni Trustees shall be elected to take office on the day after the college commencement, such office to terminate three years thereafter on the day after college commencement.

Regularly moved, seconded, and carried: Resolved, that the action of the recent special meeting in ordering the drawing up of a full and complete alumni list be approved; and that the committee in charge of this work be given power to draw on the treasury for expenses incurred in its preparation, distribution and printing.

Moved, seconded, and carried: That the secretary be instructed to take care of the printing and sending out of the revised Constitution and By-Laws, when finally prepared for publication.

The resolution regarding the continuance and date of Alumni Day, previously passed, was approved, although some discussion concerning the date took place. The secretary then read the proposed alteration in Section I of Article III of the Constitution to conform the date of our regular annual meetings to alumni instead of commencement day, such change having been signed by the required number and in the secretary's hands sixty days before the next meeting. It reads as follows: The regular annual meeting of the association shall be held on the fourth Wednesday in May of each year at such place on the college grounds and at such time as the president may direct. In the discussion on the date, a holiday was suggested. Moved and seconded, but lost: Resolved, That a date in February, preferably Lincoln's or Washington's birthday, be selected.

Moved, seconded and carried: That Section I of Article I of the Constitution be amended to read: The name of this organization is "The Alumni and Former Students' Association of St. Stephen's College."

Moved, seconded, and carried: That in By-Laws the word "five" be changed to the word "one".

Nominations and elections to office were now in order. Nominations for Directors were as follows: The Revs. J. M. Gilbert, D. H. Clark, A. J. M. Wilson, C. E. Elder, A. A. Packard, R. E. Brestell, J. M. Cerr, C. E. McAllister, and Mr. F. J. Hopson. As there was but one nomination for each member, the Rev. H. S. Smith was instructed by the president to cast one ballot for the same. Elected.

For President, the Rev. C. E. McAllister was nominated. The secretary cast the ballot. Elected.

For Vice President, the Rev. J. M. Gilbert was nominated. The secretary cast the ballot. Elected.

For Secretary, the Rev. A. A. Packard was renominated. The treasurer cast the ballot. Elected.

For Treasurer, the Rev. R. E. Brestell was renominated. The secretary cast the ballot. Elected.

For member-at-large of the Executive Committee the Rev. C. E. Eder was nominated. The secretary cast the ballot. Elected.

On motion, the president appointed the Revs. C. E. McAllister and J. M. Gilbert to bear the greetings of this meeting to the Board of Trustees.

For Alumni Trustee, the Rev. Drs. R. E. Brestell and W. J. Gardner were nominated. After ballot, the Rev. Dr. Brestell was declared elected.

The president re-appointed the Rev. O. F. R. Treder, D. D., as necrologist of the association.

The secretary then presented the report of the alumni dinner committee of which he was chairman. This showed an interested attendance and financial success.

Mr. Leonhard, newly elected trustee of the Alumni Scholarship Fund, now took up a collection, amounting to $8.00 for the fund.

Moved, seconded, and carried: That the college authorities be requested to provide seating accommodations in Eard Hall for the regular, annual and special meetings of the alumni association.

The Revs. A. M. Judd and O. F. R. Treder reported that they had audited the treasurer's books and found the balance correct as stated by him.

Taking up the question of the presence of younger members of the alumni at the meetings, it was moved, seconded, and carried: That the secretary be instructed to send a special invitation to the members of each graduating class to attend the regular, annual and special meetings of the alumni association, and to enjoy the privileges of the floor.

Moved, seconded, and carried: That By-Law 9 be altered by the placing as No. 2 in the "Order of Business": Introduction of new and prospective members. Moved, seconded and carried: That the president be requested to introduce to the meetings all new members and members of the senior class present.

Organized Alumni

The accomplishments of the organized college graduates up to the present time have been far from inconsiderable. Alumni associations in some of the older universities are over a hundred years old; in fact, the first effort which any record exists was the establishment of class organizations at Yale in 1792. For many years the idea developed slowly and consistently. At the beginning of the present century most of the larger universities had some form of alumni organization functioning with a certain degree of effectiveness. Very few institutions, however, had gone so far as to appoint a full-time alumni executive officer; in fact, the first alumni secretary was not appointed until 1897 at the University of Michigan.

The last twenty-five years, however, have witnessed a remarkable expansion. At the present time there are few American colleges or universities without an active alumni body which maintains a full-time alumni executive. In many larger institutions there may be several officers in charge of various phases of graduate activity, such as the alumni secretary, the director of the alumni fund, and the editor of the alumni publication.

Remarks on "Alumni and Adult Education"

To an increasing extent a college education nowadays can only set our feet upon certain paths which may lead to wider fields throughout adult life. In other words, education, more than ever before, is a life adventure.

College educators everywhere are recognizing the immediate bearing this new orientation on the present average college curriculum. Everything just now is in transition and the college and university world is decidedly interested in experimentation. It is quite possible, as suggested by President Alderman of Virginia, that the present era will seem, twenty-five years from now, as archaic educationally as the institutions of fifty years ago appear to us now. Things are moving so fast that one hardly dares predict just what the university of the future will become, but it is safe to say that in whatever new developments arise, the alumni will without fail have their part, simply by virtue of the active support they are giving and are prepared to give.

The great question before far-seeing educators is, what shall this part be? Many are alive to its implications and to others it will come home with increasing force in the coming years. It is unfortunate that at present articulate alumni interests have developed only in certain limited directions.

More Remarks on "Alumni Education"

Most conspicuous, certainly in the public eye, has been graduate interest in intercollegiate athletics. But of more fundamental importance has been the financial support given colleges and universities by their graduates, even though its emphasis has been on what might be called the physical equipment of education. In 1925-1926, for example, the benefactions to American colleges and universities amounted to $118,144,084. More than half of this huge amount, certainly, may be considered as coming from alumni gifts. This characteristic, and expected, alumni activity has arisen from a natural desire to be of service, often expressed blindly and inadequately, but with a sound and praiseworthy sentiment behind it.

The whole framework of alumni relations, moreover, as it exists at present, has developed upon the old conception of a college education as a course of four years, to be followed by further professional training if desired. Of late, however, we have begun to recognize that this theory is not adequate—that four or eight years is too short a period in which to assimilate the vast field opened up by modern discoveries. We have begun to see that the only adequate view of education recognizes it as a continuing life process. As Professor Joseph Jastrow says, it must be considered "a continual stimulation of mature minds." This conception has been given a decided impetus by the recent researches of Professor E. L. Thorndike of Columbia. He has shown conclusively that education is not an interest exclusively for adolescent and youthful years, that the curve of educational capacities in the individual rises rapidly up to the twentieth year and then declines very gradually indeed, and that the man or woman of forty-five is quite as capable of learning as the youth of sixteen or seventeen. See "Adult Learning" by Edward L. Thorndike, Elsie O. Bregman, J. Warren Tilton and Ella Woodyard, 1928, The MacMillan Co., New York.

Professor Thorndike's results have been borne out, particularly in recent years, by a rather subtle change in the relation of college graduates to their institutions. Thoughtful university executives and alumni officers are beginning to sense a new desire on the part of college graduates for intellectual contacts with their institutions. This interest has been developing slowly and naturally, though for the most part it is still inarticulate.

ALUMNI NOTES

Several of the white clergy of the Diocese of East Carolina, including the Rev. Dr. R. B. Deane, Rector of St. Paul's, Edenton, N. C., were in attendance at the twenty-first annual meeting of the convocation of colored church workers held recently in the Church of St. John the Evangelist, Edenton. Dr. Deane, a venerable member of the Roanoke Colony Memorial Association, also presided at the 343rd anniversary celebration of the birth of Virginia Dare, first white child born in this country.

1873

The Rev. W. H. Tomlins, a retired priest of the Diocese of Springfield, Ill., living in Granite City, celebrated the fifty-third anniversary of his ordination to priesthood on June 24th.

ALUMNI SECTION

On Trinity Sunday last the Rev. Dr. Joseph Dunkley Herron celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. Dr. Herron has entered on the seventh year of his rectorship at the Church of the Holy Trinity in the Madisonville district of Cincinnati. He was born in what is now a part of Cleveland, on November 4, 1853, and having received a scholarship because of his musical ability, went to St. Stephen's in the fall of 1871 to play the organ in the college chapel. After a year in the preparatory class he entered the college the year following, graduating in 1873 and going to the General Theological Seminary that autumn.

During the next three years he sang in the choir of the Church of the Transfiguration in New York, where he was ordained to the diaconate by Bishop Potter in 1879, and to the priesthood on Trinity Sunday, 1880. After three years spent as one of the curates in Trinity parish he was called to Trinity Church Heathcothe, Pa., where he had sung in the choir as a boy. Dr. Herron served this parish for fifteen years and then moved to Ohio where he has lived ever since, in Portsmouth and Cambridge before coming to Cincinnati. Practically the whole of these fifteen years has been spent in active ministry, though for a few months before accepting the call to Madisonville, Dr. Herron had been placed on the pension fund list of beneficiaries. He has been registrar of the Diocese of Southern Ohio since 1912 and one of the examining chaplains since 1910 and for about ten years was editor of the diocesan magazine "The Church Messenger." On Whitsunday, Dr. Herron was made one of the charter members of the newly formed section of Phi Beta Kappa at St. Stephen's.

A bronze tablet in St. Paul's Church, Flatbush, N. Y., in memory of the late Rev. Dr. Townsend Glover Jackson, was dedicated on Whitsunday morning, June 8th. Dr. Jackson was Rector of the parish from 1889 to 1920, being succeeded by the Rev. W. J. Cardner, D.D., '03.

The tide of civic progress is making necessary some radical alterations in the physical properties of historic St. Luke's Church, Chicago. In the process of widening Western avenue, it was found necessary for the city to purchase seventeen feet off the front of the St. Luke's property. This has made necessary a remodeling of the front of the structure and the erection of an entire new one. The work is now under way, and will cost between $15,000 and $20,000. This is made possible through the purchase price paid for the land by the city. Plans were drawn by Armstrong, First, and Tilton, Chicago architects.

For thirty-two years the Rev. H. L. Cawthorne has served this parish. He has seen the section pass through many changes and has faced a multitude of difficulties to keep the church open. When he went to St. Luke's a "For Sale" sign was hanging on the church. Bishop McLaren had decided to sell the property in order to pay a $6,000 debt. But Fr. Cawthorne saw to it that the debt was paid and the church has been self-sustaining ever since. In the early days, and, in fact, until a very few years ago, the rector did his calling and visiting on a bicycle in preference to an automobile.

J., first held services in this colony, using his own cottage as the place. Later he was able to gather money to build a chapel. This is a fine example of the devotion of a priest, starting a work where he spent his vacations, and maintaining it until a sufficient number were interested to carry the burden with satisfaction and joy. Fr. Dunham still summers in the colony and is much beloved, but no longer has the responsibility for the chapel.

the cup was won by Foster, who defeated Waeber in five remarkable sets.

From the two above squads we have returning this year Foster, Kates, Jordan, Everett, Hamilton, Haynes, and Simpson. With the help of a few new men of some ability, Dr. Wilson hopes to put an excellent team upon the courts.

The annual fall tournament will possibly begin the first week-end after college opens, the usual cup will be awarded to the winner.

It is interesting to note that this year we may count on a complete tennis team of faculty members, in fact, Dr. James Wilson, Dr. E. Wilson, Mr. Libaire, Dr. Garabidean, Mr. Banks, Dr. Krumpleman, and it has been whispered in that Dr. Deal can play tennis among other things. A match should be arranged between faculty and varsity in the near future.

September 22, 1930.

To the Alumni and Friends of St. Stephen's College.

Gentlemen:

The Lyre Tree is a vital and potent factor in the undergraduate life of St. Stephen's College. We are convinced that it holds no mean place in the interests of our Alumni and Friends. However, to maintain such standards as tradition dictates, we must be granted your financial support as well as your good wishes.

Our advertising resources are particularly meager, therefore, we have no choice but must depend upon outside subscriptions to help us defray the cost of publishing the Lyre Tree.

The paper is issued twice each month, except during vacation periods. The price of single subscriptions is two dollars for the college year. The present issue is paid for by the Alumni Association. Subscriptions become effective with the next issue.

We sincerely hope that the Lyre Tree will be accorded the Alumni support this year that it has very fortunately received during past years. Likewise, we urge that subscriptions be sent us as soon as possible. Address and make your checks payable to the Circulation Manager of the Lyre Tree, Mr. William Vassilew. For your convenience, a subscription coupon is printed below.

Faithfully yours,

THE BUSINESS BOARD OF THE LYRE TREE.

1930.

Mr. William Vassilew,
