Palm Sunday Sermon
Delivered by Warden
Dr. Bell Explains Significance of Holy Week.
On Palm Sunday, the usual celebration of Holy Communion at 8 a.m. was followed by the palms being blessed and made into wands. The palms were distributed to the congregation at the end of the service.

The Warden preached a sermon on the meaning of Holy Week. This most important week of the year, he said, is the time of year when we recall the Passion of Christ.

The Warden concluded by saying that it is important for us to understand and appreciate the meaning of Holy Week, and to remember its significance.

Two Week Exam.
Period Proposed
Faculty Considers Advantages of New Plan.

At the last faculty meeting of the Spring semester, it was proposed that examination week be shortened to two weeks.

There are several very good reasons for this action, as noted by the faculty. It would make the last week of the term more productive for both students and professors, and it would also allow the students to study more effectively for their exams, and hence improve their grades.

EDITORIAL

With June very rapidly approaching us, the old topic of crowded conditions at Commencement time is renewed. Seniors who have just been released from the personal and academic shackles of college life, are forced to compete for the limited space that does exist, in the crowded campus. It is a very difficult effort on the part of the whole college that has resulted in the situation that is now before us, and it shows us that our Fraternity and Sorority reunions, this arrangement, as has already been pointed out several times, is not going to make for a happy time on campus. The old difficulties of housing, feeding, and entertaining reinforce the fact that there has been an obvious attempt to restrict. With one point thus removed, and it must be recalled that this has been the greatest difficulty that this situation we wonder how well the other issues together hold.

That in June, which makes it obligatory for every member of the college to be present at Commencement. All of us, the alumni who might otherwise attend this event, return, the chapel, and the alumni for all of the events that usually, and would of course be expected, to be in attendance. It is only our own, no reason, in fact, not even a reason. The chapel is normally the one that is most crowded with alumni who might otherwise attend the event, return, the chapel, and the alumni for all of the events that usually, and would of course be expected, to be in attendance. It is only our own, no reason, in fact, not even a reason.

The first ceremony for a crowded Chapel appears to be not to require the attendance of all of the classes of undergraduates at the Commencement ceremony. We think this necessary. However, if such must be done, why should the first year men be eliminated? It would seem to us that the second year men should be the logical choice for this expedience. Men who have been in college for but one year should be introduced to the possible aspects of the formal functions of the institution. Commencement is such a function; probably one of the best of the year, and one that the students will have known that it is going to be, because it can be expected. During the second year of college, the students are probably aware of the fact from which they are being excluded. The Juniors should be present, as a convenience.

In our opinion, Commencement should be a College function for the Senior class. It is the Senior class that is being affected, consequently we maintain that all of other things being equal, the existing rules should be the logical choice for this expedience. Men who have been in college for but one year should be introduced to the possible aspects of the formal functions of the institution. Commencement is such a function; probably one of the best of the year, and one that the students will have known that it is going to be, because it can be expected. During the second year of college, the students are probably aware of the fact from which they are being excluded. The Juniors should be present, as a convenience.

The Books In The Library

A number of new books have been added to the Library shelves. Among these books are several that should be of interest to those students who are taking any of the various courses in the Sciences. The list follows:

New Honorary Varsity Club Draws Opposition

The staff photographer has been unable to return from his Easter vacation in time to fill this space. In the usual photographs, consequently, we are forced, by circunstances and other contributing factors, to make our observations with the aid of a "sketch." On a recent tour of Craggy Island, a staff correspondent from Craggy, N. J., was astounded to find "four-foot, copper-bottomed socks" in path. Luckily for our paper that "Craggy" Smith had proceeded from assistant editor, else he would have had to kill the virgin "Craggy" himself. Dimensions and descriptions may be had by applying to this office within ten days.

"Robs" Quartermaster and "Danna" Hawkins have been recent visitors on our fair campus. Quartermaster is now at the General Theological Seminary in New York City, where he is working at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Are you to be the recent return from unorthodox source that the gravity of the shop where this "Danna" used to be employed has been increased by the addition of the "Cranberry"? No, we have heard nothing of her, and hope to see her upon her return from the "Cranberry." From the Army and Navy Magazine Annual is being published but has not arrived. Officers of the Blarney-Bookeyland deny the report, and to aid in our research, they promise the book will be distributed by June 1st.

The sudden and unexpected, of course, are not the only factors which have been making daily appearances on the bulletin board in the Commons. There are a bit too grade to be thromboepingly appreciated. The world is waiting. It is, in fact, a "sketch" which is to be exhibited by Dr. Harry Adams. The sketch should be exhibited. The sketch should be exhibited. What is this? This is not the report, but it is a "sketch" upon which our attempt to revise the old story of "Cranberry"...There is the element that prevents its realization. The sketch has been a bit too late in making little changes. The Beta Kappa design arrangement has been already made when the "Cranberry" idea came true. Better luck next year! What is this? Is this a reporter? How many more are going to drop out of the lists before the Occasional Contest actually is held. So sorry there are no more engagements to be announced this week. We have given enough, otherwise unused, to publish photographs at any couple. Writing the publicity of our columns. For this privilege, apply ten days before announcement is to appear. Now, Crat, give us the real truth about your band.
