Annual Meeting Of Economic Society. World Economic Situation Reviewed

During the week following Dr. Edward, the annual meeting of the American Economic Society was held in New York. During this conference, the ASSEd will address a special meeting of the student members of the newly organized student magazine "Economist," which is in the process of being organized.

American Education Compared With the European System

In the last few years there has been increasing attention paid to the problems of education in this country in comparison to those of European countries. The standard of American education is higher than that of other countries, and American educators are now receiving more invitations to lecture abroad.

American colleges receive large endowments and have a large number of students. However, American universities receive a smaller portion of their support from endowments and have a smaller number of students. This is because the cost of education in the United States is higher than in Europe.

On Saturday, January 16th, Columbia Grant for Convocation

On Saturday, January 16th, Columbia College will hold a special meeting of the student members of the newly organized student magazine "Economist," which is in the process of being organized.

Dr. Bell Explains College Situation to Convocation

Dr. Bell will speak to the Columbia student body on the topic of "The Future of American Education." He will discuss the current state of American education, including the problems facing the country and the steps that can be taken to improve it.

Varsity Squad Loses As Juniors Defeat Beacon High School

In the annual varsity football game between the Varsity and Junior Teams of Beacon High School, the Junior Team was victorious. The game was played on the field of the Heritage High School and the score was 13-12. The Junior Team played well and was able to outscore the Varsity Team.

Consider Dropping Hockey As Sport

The Athletic Committee has recommended that Hockey be dropped as an Intercollegiate Sport for the next year. This decision was made after a detailed analysis of the costs and benefits of continuing the sport.

Both Quinet Wins Games Wednesday

On Wednesday evening the Junior Varsity defeated Philomont High School 30 to 29 in a preliminary game. The varsity team was victorious, winning by a score of 23 to 19.

An Experience With Hasheshees

During my residence in Iraq, I had frequently heard of the practice of hashesh. Finally my curiosity induced me to make a trip, and I found the taste intensely bitter and repulsive. My Pazazz was not dissipated, nor was I in the middle of the room, talking to my friend the other night. But there was no hashesh in my hand. I was accompanied with a burning sensation of the stomach. But instead of growing dizzy as we had expected, the effect came to me with the intensity of a pugilist hitting the nerves to the extremities of my body. The sense of limitation instantly relapsed. I felt suspended in the air, and I felt a hard, pulsing blow from my heart. (To be continued.)

World Economic Situation

There is a great deal of holding of money. The United States treasury has outstanding at present nearly $500,000,000 more money than it had at the height of prosperity in 1929. It is calculated that the total amount of money being printed is at least $1,000,000,000.

The maldistribution of gold is a serious cause of trouble. The mining of new gold during the last fifteen or twenty years has not kept pace with the needs of governments and industries. The gold standard is to be retained, but the financial efficiency of gold must be fifty percent greater than it was twenty years ago.

As a matter of fact its efficiency as a currency medium is less than it has been for many years past.

It was the general opinion that the Federal Reserve Banking System should be greatly enlarged, and that the flexibility of its procedure should be increased. Directors of the Federal Reserve Banking System proposed an increase of $2,000,000,000 capital. Dr. Ogilvie told of a machine, the so-called electricity, which produced a typewritten manuscript at one end of the words spoken into the other. It is calculated that this machine will be commercialized in thirty years. That will mean the virtual extinction of stenographers. The "electric eye" will also read a boost about when turned on specially printed letters. So in the happy future a student may be able to become a bachelor of arts or even a doctor of philosophy without need to learn to type or write.

President Bagaudus of the American Sociological Society had just published a volume: "Contemporary Sociology." Dr. Edwards is the modern scholar whose writings are quoted as controlling present day sociology.

-College Situation

Let us consider the position of St. Stephen’s College in the light of the new plan. It has been suggested that St. Stephen’s College should be extended into a larger and better school that is to be named the Institute of St. Stephen’s. The trustees of the college are in favor of the extension, the most important features being the provision for higher education in the college and the establishment of a new faculty.

The plans of the college are to be adapted to the needs of the present day. The college is to be equipped with modern buildings and laboratories. The college is to be open to all students, regardless of their backgrounds.

The college is to be supported by a large endowment fund. The college is to be self-supporting and is to be free from governmental control.

The college is to be a center of learning and is to be a center of social activities. The college is to be a center of service to the community.

The college is to be a center of research and is to be a center of the arts and sciences.

The college is to be a center of the humanities and is to be a center of the sciences.

The college is to be a center of the liberal arts and is to be a center of the professional schools.

(Continued From Page One) positioning to compete with a team with a scoring mania like that. Finally, the shuttle must have been able to hold down the scoring of the visitors more than they did. The defense was weak, the forwards too timid to take the chances that should never have been shot. They could not free Bill Streubend, a better five, but the game could have been more interesting and less one-sided. On the offensive, however, Free's man did not fail. Both Symons and his man had an off night on shooting fouls the Saints' pots, total would have been well over forty.

Symons led the Saint's Stephen's five in the number of points scored, sinking four field goals and two foaks. Billy Good was right after him with nine points and Jack Bitch next with eight. Phillip of Earl Streubend had the high honors of the evening ringing up nine field goals for eighteen points. All his scoring was done in the first half, he did not make a point in the second. Evans and Hoppes were also prominent in their scoring. They had in their division scores of eleven and eleven respectively.

"My poor, poor White Whine." I called out. "I must take you home, for I cannot bear to see you die in the snow, or worse, die of old age."

Softly from the cramped manger one looked into my face, and one could see the sadness in the eyes, and hear the sighs in the room, and hear the question, "What is this life that we live?" And I don't know, for my own part."

"We must get away from here."

As I closed the door I looked back for one glimpse of the White Whine, for I had been so long gone that I could not see it. The room was dimly lit, and the silence, life, death were all that I could hear."
