Katherine Warren To Play the Lead in "Wuthering Heights"

Katherine Warren, noted actress and leading lady of many prominent Broadway and film productions, will play the role of "Catherine" in a new production of Emily Bronte's "Wuthering Heights". When the play opens at the Laboratory Theatre, Bard College, the evening of November 1, it was announced today by the drama department, Harriott Marshall, head of the department. The production was a $13,000 investment in the first production of the play at Westridge in America, which will join the Laboratory Theatre company for the first time this season, and last summer.

The announcement is of particular interest to many students who are seen in the audience on Monday, November 9.

Katherine Warren is well known to Broadway theatre-goers. Both actresses are well known to many of the American public, and the production of this play is an event for them.

Miss Warren will be accompanied by a large number of outstanding people of the American public, and she will be in the opening night at the theatre.

Dr. Tewksbury Starts Tour

Dr. Donald G. Tewksbury, acting dean of Bard College, left today on the start of an extensive tour of the college and preparatory schools. He will also be visiting some of the places interested in Bard College, and its progressive policies, as well as the funds for the furthering of the college plan.

Dr. Tewksbury will be visiting the University of Pennsylvania, the University of Chicago, and the University of California. He will be back on November 22.

The Three Fraternities Pledge New Members

Twelve Neophytes Pledge Short Rushing

The three fraternities of Bard College have announced through the Penn-Holocene Council the pledging of twelve men from this year. This low number reflects the low numbers of pledges to one college during the rush season, which was the same at all institutions this year.

THE LYRE TREE

Poetry and Such

For better or worse
This old universe
Has taken me by the tail—
I’ll leave it to you
But here’s what you can do:
Let’s bang up a sign, “World for—
Dear Mother Nature
Is quite an old creature;
In its natural state.
We need a new base
To give the world vigor and zest.
For various reasons
The number of them is great:
Do not, to my mind, sattle.
What shall we do to make it live?
Let’s go creative:
Our endeavors are out of date.
Though others may sing
Of the beauties of Spring,
When the flowers and trees are in bloom—
I am afraid to admit
I don’t like it a bit;
We need a new Spring without mud.
With this as a sample,
A glaring example of—
How of things annual slide,
If I were you, you’d try to thrive.
The weather, the water are both for—
And make the world ride.
On morn, fine and heather
Well having put to bed;
And regulate both heat and cold.
With a deck of cards
To foster disasters;
We’re bringing up a sign, “This world sold.”

In the first game that will draw the slender attention of the fans, the men of the Greek letters and the professors will face each other at the front door of their city. The victor of this encounter will be the man destined to take the field against the men of the other side. The enthusiasm that has been shown in the last few weeks is due to the fact that the fans have been capturing the services of the best players in the world. The game will be played on the field of the Greek letters.

The playing of the game is as exciting as the combat of the men of the other side. The students will be selected from the ranks of the best players in the world. The game is to be played on the field of the Greek letters.

Freshman Rules

Contrary to expectations and the customs which have arisen at this college in the past few years, the freshman rule or hazing period passed this year without a rebellion on the part of the new men, riots with serious consequences or trouble of a lasting sort. That the men of this class are a law-abiding and a peaceable people is amply demonstrated by the experiences of the past year. No new rules are necessary for the guidance of the freshmen.

Indications are that the "days of hazing" are over and that a new atmosphere has arisen at this college. The old traditions are not to be disregarded, and that new traditions are to be established in the interest of the students.

A Treatise on The Youngest Science

Matter is the principal element of all matter. It is a substance which is made up of two or more of the elements: hydrogen, carbon, oxygen, and nitrogen. These elements can combine in different ways to form compounds, which are the fundamental building blocks of the universe.

In this treatise, we will explore the nature of matter and its behavior under different conditions. We will also discuss the role of matter in the processes of life and death, and how it affects the evolution of the universe.

The English Club Meets

The English Club, whose members are the students of the college who are interested in English studies, held its first meeting on Wednesday, October 3. A paper on "The English Language" was read by Arthur Kent. Discussion was conducted in various arts followed. High Brow was reported as the most interesting discussion of the night. "Free Verse as a Social and Educational Problem" was the topic of the next meeting, October 26.
Facilities of F. P. A.
Open To Student

The oldest and best known feature of the organization’s work is the discussion meetings held by the various branches during the winter months at which authoritative speakers present two or more differing points of view on current problems. The New York meeting, most of which are held at the Hotel Astor on several Saturday afternoons during the winter months, are free to student members and are followed by a special discussion open to students only. The points raised by the speakers just heard will be reviewed informally under the leadership of an expert on the subject.

The association through a research staff of ten members also meets a vital need of students of foreign affairs by means of four series of publications. These include weekly bulletins containing a lively interpretation of current international importance; a weekly Washington letter prepared by the head of the branch’s membership; the F. P. A. at the capital; fortnightly reports which give the background as well as the immediate plans of current selected problems; a pamphlet series which was inaugurated last winter in cooperation with the World Peace Foundation.

According to the Association’s new plan, a special membership for the academic year will be open to all regularly accredited full-time students at one-fifth the regular dues. Publications are also to be available for class-room use at special rates, and study outlooks have been prepared by the Association’s research staff for the use of debating groups and student organizations interested in foreign problems. Further information concerning the Foreign Policy Association may be obtained by applying to The Lyre Tree.

School Harriers
Again To Race
Over Bard Course

The plans for the annual Mil-Hudson Intercollegiate Cross-Country Meet are rapidly maturing. Twelve teams have signified the intention to compete, the course of last May. This annual athletic event has won devoted prominence throughout the Hudson Valley during its existence and interest appears to be keener than ever this year on account of the fact that a special classification is being opened to high schools outside of the four counties of Dutchess, Columbia, Ulster and Greene. Last year there were ninety-five competitors to drive for the various cups and medals awarded by the athletic department. The teams and classifications thus far are as follows:

First Race: Red Hook, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh.

The teams in the first two races plus Kingston are candidates for the large open cup for the team making the best aggregate time. It is restricted to the four counties mentioned above and was won last year by the Pawling High School. Although Watts of Kingston made the best individual time, the excellence of the prizes offered this year will be again largely due to the second grader. A gift of twenty-five dollars from the Alumni Association voted at their meeting of last May. This amount, together with a small entry fee from the competitors makes it possible to present the outstanding competitors, both teams and individuals, with trophies that are supremely worthy of striving for.

DEAN and DR. HARRY SPEAK AT CLASSICAL CLUB ASSEMBLY.

The newly organized Classical Club held its first open meeting on Wednesday night, October 19, in the meeting, composed of faculty members and students, numbered about thirty persons. The speakers were Dean Donald C. Tewksbury and Dr. J. E. Harry.

Harry was the main speaker of the evening, and he discussed the importance of the classics in modern education. He emphasized the relevance of Latin and Greek to contemporary life and society.

Dean Tewksbury opened the meeting by introducing Harry and discussing the future plans of the Classical Club.

Music

The program of negro folk-music was presented by the Eva Joyce Choir on September the 30, the songs of negroes that are to be presented this year at the college. Of the twelve short numbers that made up the first part of the program, the best ensemble singing was heard in the following four: “Pleasant Good Night,” “Somebody Knocking at Your Door,” “Joshua fought the battle of Jericho” and “Hold on.” Miss Helen Dowdy and Mrs. James B. Brown did excellent solo work in those selections. Miss Lilian Crown arrested attention by her singing of “Spiritual,” “I stand and Plead My Arms.” Her voice, which was remarkable for its sustained and plangent, suited the thought and feeling of the piece, the latter of which old stand-by, “Deep River” and “Swing Low, Sweet Chariot,” were rather disappointing. The arrangement seemed made up as an effort to fill the small choir.

Music: “Right” and “Rehovation” were the best numbers in the second group of selections. The numbers sung all the evening however; were the choirs, “Memphis Blues” and “Swing Low, Sweet Chariot.” It was met with a burst of applause, and was followed by another number, “Memphis Blues,” and “Swing Low, Sweet Chariot,” which produced the same effect.

BARD COLLEGE

Columbia University

Annandale-on-Hudson

New York

A Residential College for Men

A College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, associated with the Episcopal Church, and incorporated with the educational system of Columbia University.

It combines the advantages of college and university education. Its location at Annandale-on-Hudson, 95 miles south of New York City gives it the advantages of both city and country life.

The Faculty, founded in 1860, is equipped to teach men who, after graduation, are intending to enter post-graduate study in medicine, law, journalism, or theology, or into classical, scientific, social, or literary research. The “Country Day” program, planned for $500 for the year, including tuition, room and board. Scholarships and part-time employment are available for qualified students.
