EAST INDIAN PROFESSOR HERE NEXT SEMESTER

Dr. Samuel Y. Joshi, Senior Professor of English at the University of Bombay, is to give a course in comparative religions at St. Stephen’s, next semester.

Dr. Joshi has been in the United States for a year and a half as a Carnegie Exchange Professor. During this time he has lectured on comparative literatures and comparative religions at the University of Nebraska, and at the University of Colorado. He is, at present, lecturing at the General Theological Seminary on comparative religions and will give a course here, next semester, on Brahmanism, Buddhism, and Islam.

Dr. Joshi did his undergraduate work at the University of Calcutta, and received a graduate degree from Columbia.

His course here will be open to upperclassmen. It will call for two hours of classroom work each week, and will carry three credit units.

New Chaplain Arrives

The Reverend C. Frederick Brookins arrived On the campus on Thursday last from Holy Cross Monastery, where he has been staying since his return to this country from the Virgin Islands, to assist in the Chapel services here. The situation hitherto has been such that there has always been sufficient clergy among the faculty members to take care of the services and the religious life of the college, but at the present time there are fewer clerical members of the faculty than ever before, making it necessary for the time being at least, to have a priest who shall have no other duties here than to minister to the spiritual needs of the college community.

Father Brookins is a thoroughly capable and experienced priest, and should fill the position of college chaplain. He was for twelve years associated with St. Mark’s Church, Philadelphia, and his most recent charge was as rector of All Saints Parish, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands—a parish of some thirteen hundred communicants, which he was forced to give up because of weakened health due to the excessive warmth of the climate.

VAVERS WINS OPENING GAMES

BITTNER STARS AGAINST EASTMAN—RICE AGAINST ALBANY PHARMACY.

In the first game of its official schedule, played in the gymnasium on December 14, the Varsity nipped Eastman College of Poughkeepsie, 21-29. The game was rough and exciting. In the second half, both teams played with determination, Bittner shooting the deciding goal. Vanderveer, Kilby and Ring, Eastman’s stars, were forced to retire from the game because of personal fouls.

Albany Defeated

On the afternoon of January 12th, in a slow and loosely played game in the Memorial Gymnasium, the Varsity five-outpointed Albany College Pharmacy, 30-16. The Varsity demonstrated its superiority early in the game, and the outcome was never in doubt. Some of the individual playing—Rice’s in particular—was excellent, but team work was an absent factor. But for the fact that Albany could not score even under the basket—and they were in scoring position a good many times—we should have lost. Rice scored first on a free try after only a few seconds of play. A minute or so later Kilby brought the ball down the floor and passed under the basket to Richert, who scored. He scored a second basket on a pass from Bittner. And so it went; the Varsity always in the lead, always aware of the fact, and therefore never trying too hard, was able to increase the lead.

The line-up:

Eastman Bittner (Capt.), F.R. Rine (Capt.), B.F. Richert, L.F. Coffin, C.

Albany Vanderveer, R.G. Powers, R.G. Millington, R.G. Kilby, L.G. Myers, L.G.

PROPOSES OUR NEED OF EDUCATION IN DEMOCRACY

On Monday evening, December sixteenth, Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, former President of Amherst College, lectured in the Memorial Gymnasium on Education in Democracy. He said in part—

As I am interested in education, so I am interested in democracy, which we are said to be trying in America. We may be said to be trying the other. Too. There is one thing I do not believe in. That is lectures. I think college education by lectures is an abomination. I believe in education by discussion and what I want from you is some reaction.

I am going to quote the man whom I quote more than anyone else—Epictetus. The question is, “What should education be in a democracy?” How can people be made ready to live in a democracy? We Americans think that life is too simple, that common sense is enough, the natural equipment of a man, we say, is enough. But life is a terribly contradictory and mixed-up thing.

As soon as you start to do something worth while, you find that you are doing the exact opposite. Life takes all the wits, analysis, reserve, abstractions, a man can summon. Life is a terribly bewildering thing. No man is living a moral life unless he does certain things, obeys certain moral laws. These laws are in conflict.

My first “moral law” is that a man must have taste, sensibility to life. Man must perceive what there is in life. The thing that destroys life and its values is dullness, failure to perceive, to feel what is there. You must have taste; the crime is dullness.

At every moment, we are obeying or disobeying this law. Whenever I can, for a holiday, I go to Rome, to the abbey church of St. Ouen. Everything I see, in every space, everywhere in the building is in perfect harmony. There you know what the spirit of worship is. That to me is excellence. In that building the human spirit has found an expression of excellence, of beauty. Go to Paris or New York and you see the other extremes, ugliness. That is life at the bottom.

Epictetus tells the story of Priscus Helvius, a senator who, alone, refused to vote for a certain measure because he thought it wrong, even though it cost him his life. “What good did Priscus do?” asks Epictetus, “he who was just a single voice?” What good does the purple do to the garment, except to make it beautiful?

The second law is the one we Anglo-Saxons talk about. It is a law for which I have the very highest regard, that of sharing. “Love thy neighbor as thyself.” Another statement of it is that there is anything worth having in life, it is important that others have it. Another formulation is coming into vogue—if there is anything worth having in life and others can not have it, then I will not have it.

Young people see a civilization in which large bodies of people control large bodies of the world’s goods, while others can not have them. It is in accordance with every meaning of democracy that all men, no matter what their circumstances, should have a chance at life. Democracy for me means education. That is all you can give to people on a large scale. All other attempts fail.

What value is it to give a man a vote, if he doesn’t know how to use it? Power will always be in the hands of those who understand. Giving all votes does not mean giving all control. Man can have life given just to his ability to take it. The best thing is to see what is to be taken.

Said Epictetus, “The rulers of the state have said that only free men shall be educated, but God has said that only educated men shall be free.”

The trouble is that these laws conflict. It is obvious that when you try to share excellence with many, they destroy it. It is a result of greed jealousy. This is controversial and I hope to meet opposition. The crowd seeking its common denominator is sure of it only on the lower levels. The excellence of Greece was built on the basis of thousands of slaves. The great statesman aristocrat says that it is impossible that excellence shall be shared by the common people. What is to be done about the conflict? Are we to go... (Continued on page 2)
Seconds Win From Madelin
OUTPOINTED BY RAYMOND RIORDAN

On December 12 the second team playing on the home court, easily de-fated the Madelin High School five by a 65-5 score. Milton, Murry and Urechard scored almost at will; while all that Madelin could get in the way of points was one free goal and three free tries. That was due to close guarding on the part of the scrums, ably attended to by Maclean, Voor- hies and Bookhaut.

Summary: field goals, Derrick 5, Scott 5, Murry 6, Urechard 9, Milton 5, Studley (Madelin) 1; free tries, Murry 5, Urechard, Milton 1 each, Quick, Quimby, Eberhart (Madelin) 1 each. Referee, Big Jack Conlin.

Loss to Raymond Riordan

On January 12, while the Varsity was beating Albany, the scrums were a foul by Raymond Riordan, one of the fastest outs in the Hudson Valley, fresh from their victory over Eastman. Morgan and Fisher, with four field goals apiece, led the school boys scoring. Derrick, contributing three goals from the floor and one free try, and Urechard, with two floor goals and one free try, were high men for the scrums. The final score was 27-20, another tribute to the work of the home guards. The line-up,

St. Stephen's Sec. Raym'd Riordan
Murry, L.F. Chevrette (Capt.) L.F. Scott
Derrick, R.F. Morgan, R.F. (Patterson)
Urechard, C. Urechard, C.
MacLean (Capt.) L.G. Timmons, L.G. Wilson, R.G. (Fernal)
(A llen)

Summary goals from the floor, Chevrette 4, Morgan 4, Derrick 4, Urechard 3, Scott free tries, Fernal 2, Timmons, Murry 2, Derrick, Urechard, Referee, Benware; Time-keeper, Coty.
