

Additional First-Year Seminar Instructor Requirements for the 2022-23 Academic Year

In addition to leading two 80-minute seminars each week, First-Year Seminar instructors are required to:

1. Attend a day-long First-Year Seminar Orientation Workshop before the start of the semester. This Workshop will include background on the course texts, discussion of the course structure and theme, and guidance for running the course Writing Workshops.
2. Run seven, hour-long Writing Workshops for their class over the course of the semester. These Workshops require no course reading preparation for students or faculty, but are forums for faculty to help students improve their written and oral communication. Guidance on how to run these labs will be provided in the Orientation Workshop.
